UPMISTRESS, Eng., Feb. 21.—Two beautiful girls, daughters of the United States consul—general at Naples, 1,500 feet to their deaths from an airplane near here today and friends said they started on their last flight heartbroken over the recent deaths of two officers of the Royal Air Force. They fell from a passenger plane, on which they had reserved all eight seats, speeding to Paris.

London friends of the girls, the only children of Count Du Bois of San Francisco, said the girls' grief was uncontrollable over the loss of their friends.

The girls had been with the British fliers when the flying boat was in Naples during January and the early part of the month. They had just come to England, following the funeral of the flying boat victims.

ALICIA FARLA, nimble-footed and twenty, is on her way to London to keep an engagement with the Prince of Wales. She has an appointment, at 10, to tell the king, who will dance the quadrille. Last year at Monte Carlo, she showed him how to do the tumbler—in only two lessons!

Two sealed letters were found on the plane, flown back to its base after the pilot, J. Kirton, had discovered the girls' absence and the cabin door open while he was over the channel some time since they fell.

One was addressed to their father and the other to their mother. Scotland Yard detectives came in how to do the tumbler—in only two lessons!

FRANCIS APPEARS IN COURT FOR DECEASED PRINCE OF ROSS

LOVE CAUSES DEATH PLUNGE OF TWO GIRLS

The girls were staying in London for four or five days last week for the last day or two they appeared to be very upset about something they seemed rather hysterical and cried a lot.
The girls said the sisters appeared to be agitated when they reached the airport preparatory to boarding the plane.
Constance Franklin C. Gowan of the court, said she saw the girls on the case of the death of the Prince of Wales, while the girls were made for an inquest here probably next week. The girls' father is coming from Naples.
The two girls, both under 24 years old, plunged into a field of fire when they were hurled through the air.
Their father is Count Du Bois, 34, native of Hudson, N.Y., but now with his legal residence at San Francisco. His wife was the former Miss Margaret Mendell of Boston. They were married August 1, 1910, and have two daughters, their only children.

PILOT UNWARE

The plane they dropped from behind the Hillman Air Service, which pilot apparently flew on for an hour after the girls fell to their deaths without knowing the fate of his two passengers.
Over the English channel, he looked back into the cabin, saw the girls were missing, and that a door was open.
He immediately notified Croydon, the nearest airport, and then, still streaked back to the Hillman landing field at Northford, Surrey.

The death plane was witnessed by a group of workmen who slipped into the sky at the moment of the crash. They saw two objects hurtling down to the ground. Remembering the recent use of a bar code from a Hillman plane, they rushed to the spot and found the bodies of the girls.

FINNERS HONORED

Instead, the men were horrified to see the bodies of the two girls. They were the only passengers in the plane which in addition, carried 40 pounds of baggage. It was believed the death of the girls was the result of the fact that the normal altitude of the Hillman plane when they crossed the English channel was 10,000 feet.

A shattered wrist watch engraved with the name of the girls, was found near the bodies. They were the only passengers in the plane which in addition, carried 40 pounds of baggage. It was believed the death of the girls was the result of the fact that the normal altitude of the Hillman plane when they crossed the English channel was 10,000 feet.

ANOTHER MYSTERY

Aviation circles are still debating the mystery of the death of the two girls. Alfred Lowenstein, internationally known expert on the subject, who discovered the girls' bodies, said he was in flight. Experts at the time said two men together with the girls were unable to open the passenger door against the "suction" from the propeller.
The girls' father, Count Du Bois, was heard from him.

WESTERNERS PROPOSES FOR SETTLEMENT

Scheme to Return 20,000 Young Farmers to New Land Occasions Warm Debate.

OTTAWA, Feb. 21.—A protest against "welfare schemes" handed out to men who had spent years behind the plow was heard in the house of commons Wednesday by John Vallance (Lib., South Bedfordshire), who for 28 years has been a wheat farmer in Saskatchewan.

Joseph Bradette (Lib., North Kent), a lawyer and merchant at Gochran, Ont., started the protest by sponsoring a motion to promote a land settlement scheme, spending $20,000,000 over a period of five years to purchase farms for young men who have been drifting to the cities. He would give preference to boys born on the farms and leave out industrial workers and immigrants.

OPPOSES DICTATION

Although he was willing to support the Bradette motion, the Saskatchewan Liberal protested against lawyers, doctors and school teachers attempting to dictate to farmers on agricultural subjects. There was only one way to make the farms more attractive—through education and money in the lake "to select several hundred boys indiscriminately, give them a draft of the province and offer them to make good money."

MINISTERIAL MOTION

Mr. Vallance, however, said that the Bradette motion was a "dictation" and that he would not support it. He said that the government should not spend $20,000,000 to select several hundred boys indiscriminately, give them a draft of the province and offer them to make good money.

SUPERVISOR OPERATIONS

Land would receive $1,000 in five annual payments of $200 each. The land would be supervised by federal or provincial officials. If the government could launch a housing scheme for the farmers, it could do something for farmers said Michael Luskovich (U.S.A. Representative).

WESTERNERS DEBATE

Two western Liberals, Dr. F. W. Gresham, and P. B. St. John, supported the motion. Dr. Gresham, who has always worked the land in Canada and the only hope was to settle the land.

THE INDUSTRIAL REACTION

Anybody can understand that it is better business mining gold at $35 an ounce than at $23 an ounce. That is why Colorado and other gold-producing states see in the Washington decision to assure the minimum price of gold increased activity in gold-mining operations and areas; and why Canadian gold-producing areas will see a rise in the price of gold of continued demand at the new world price.

So long as the superstition prevails that gold-backed money is for some reason preferable to money without gold, the gold-mining industry will be a profitable enterprise wherever it can be found that is worth working. The growth of this superstition, which is a result of inflation, during the life-time of the present generation, and if there is any likelihood of it fading out sooner, that is good enough reason why gold miners and mining interests should make hay while the sun shines.

SUPPRESSION A MENACE

Tim Buck, said out of one Ottawa theatre which held two thousand people, and another which can hold more, finally spoke in the Coliseum to an audience of three thousand. And said nothing more than what has been said before in the House of Commons, and nothing very likely to lead his hearers into the communist party.

There has been more to fear from official incompetence than from communist orators; the kind of incompetency that imagines communism can be eliminated by the use of force, and that it is to state their views in the open. That sort of treatment gained Buck an audience in the Dominion capital fifteen times as large as he could have had if he had been treated as a man.

Where does officialdom get the notion that the intelligence of a Canadian audience is inadequate to understand the meaning of the speeches of a man like Tim Buck, and that at its proper work, and that the gullible public must be shielded from the eloquence of Moscow-inspired prophets? Or how does officialdom imagine it can suppress the truth by setting up a Soviet system if they should ever want to do that?

The only proper, effective or necessary safeguard against the growth of communism is freedom of speech. That is why freedom of speech is not permitted in Russia. Russian methods of suppression tend to produce Russian results, even in Canada.

OUT OF THE WAY

Members of the House of Commons give unanimous support to a resolution that insurance bill. The principle of the measure is thereby approved without dissent. Amendments may be made on the bill, but they must be to plumb the object, but not to change it, or to alter the essential character of the scheme.

For what is it worth and so far as it will go, this partial safeguard against distress in future times of unemployment has the sanction of parliament, as it is no doubt has of the public.
What it will be worth and how far it will go to meet the end in view time will tell, and it is a good deal of time will be required.

It is not a good deal of time will be required bearing on the present unemployment situation.
Unemployed men cannot come out of their provisions, for even if they are able to pay the required dues they have no money to put up for dollar as required.

Men who are now employed, of the selected category may come under the operation of the bill if they lose their jobs after a date six months will be entitled to draw from the fund. It is therefore only having bearing on the conditions of the present depression period if unemployment spreads from next fall onward.

The present impression of the bill is that it is a further check on the government in the introduction of the "other ideas" the Prime Minister says he has for dealing with the unemployed, which now exists to the fact that it was considered necessary to safeguard the future of this strictly limited way before tackling the problem of present unemployment, has not been settled. In any case, the bill is a step in the direction of the unemployed may find out what Mr. Bennett has in mind on their behalf.

MORE ELEVENTH-HOUR

REPENTANCE

Premier Reid spoke on Monday in the debate on the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne. He said that he was not to what he had to say on the subject of repentance.

Western provincial governments and municipalities, the Premier advised, should join in asking the Dominion Government to take action in bringing about a refunding of their obligations.

Which if it means anything means action to make provincial and municipal bonds callable forthwith, and thus repayable in cash, or re-placeable by new bonds carrying lower rates of interest.

At a later stage the Premier said he had urged the question of refunding the provincial debt upon the Dominion Government, and had found it "fully sympathetic" to the idea. Why this sympathy was not expressed in any translated into action is something the taxpayers will want to know.

If it is true that the Dominion authority "sympathized with the necessity of something being done," why hasn't it been done or why isn't it in process of being done? It is all very well to know that Ottawa sympathizes with the views of the government and the taxpayers of the province in their troubles, but sympathy without works does not remove the cause of the grief.

An attitude of benevolent neutrality on the part of the federal Government is no present help to the balancing of the provincial budget by the cutting of the long list of provincial payers. No doubt if the western provincial governments and municipalities pool their vocal efforts they can make a noise loud enough for Ottawa to hear on the eve of a general election.

But arousing Ottawa's attention and getting the immediate relief that is so urgent are two entirely different things. Why didn't the happy thought of uniting the governments and municipalities in one long petition for relief get to Alberta ministers long ago? It has been dinned into their ears from all quarters for two years or more.

Inviting Ottawa's attention to the matter now means there can be no refunding of provincial or municipal bonds for another year at the earliest. It will take the provinces and municipalities lined up and organized to present their demand. The Dominion Government, not unreasonably, will want time to consider the matter. The prospect of amounting to a certainty, is that parliament will be prorogued before refunding legislation on the projected wholesale scale can be put through. After that will come the proceedings necessary to make refunding a reality. Perhaps a year from now "something" could be done.

What the legislature should demand to know is why the interest of the other provincial governments in the refunding of their bonds being stirred up on the eve of general elections in Alberta, provincial and federal. All that can now come of the effort in the present year of grace is that provincial pleas may be addressed to the Alberta voters to return both Governments—and get a reduction in bond interest rates—tomorrow.

Forty Years Ago

From the Files of The Edmonton Bulletin

Mrs. James Lauder received by last mail from a relative in Scotland a document dated July 22, 1788, signed by Robert Burns, of Mosgale. It is a deed of transfer of certain property to Gilbert Burns, brother of Robert, and is one of the many documents of the latter for America.

The plans of the Territorial Exhibition buildings at Regina are now on view in the town clerk's office. No doubt the buildings are well suited for the purpose for which they are intended, but in architectural design they follow the style of the old-time buildings.
The main building has a close resemblance to the Athabasca warehouse in the H. B. fort at Edmonton.

D. B. Fraser has acquired the sole interest in the saw and grist mill business of D. R.
Fraser and Co. The mills were established in Edmonton in 1880, and have since that time included a saw mill, a grist mill and a complete set of wood working machinery. The present proprietor has been managing partner since 1880.

THIRTY YEARS AGO

Rev. Father Beaudry returned Saturday from Hobema.

St. Petersburg: Students and professors at the university have gone on strike and are preparing revolutionary placards. The Fort Saskatchewan council is trying to secure part of the police reserve for a site for a C.N.R. station.

Paris: For the first time, a German submarine U-boat reported to have attacked a neutral vessel, a U-boat pursuing a Norwegian ship off Harfleur.

At a joint meeting of the industrial association and civic officials it was agreed that the city should be bound to the last railway line.
An attempt to redraw the map may be made.
D. W. Warner was nominated Liberal candidate for the House of Commons in the riding of St. Lawrence.

Supr. Larmouth reported to the operating committees of council that he could cut the cost of running the street railway $50,000 a year if he ran the system as a company would run it.

TEN YEARS AGO

Ottawa: W. F. McLean, Conservative member for South coast, in the House of Commons said that the Dominion paper to the effect that the Dominion parliament should have power to amend the B.N.A.
Act.

London: The British government has decided to co-operate with the Government of the United States in the attempt to build up another army in Europe.

Quebec: St. Godard of The Pas has won this year's dog marathon of 42 miles here, doing the distance in 4 hours and 9 minutes.

Poems That Live

SONG

Love's on the highroad, Love's in the byroad—Love's in the meadow, and Love's in the mart!

And down every highway
Where I've taken my way I've met Love's smiling-for Love's in my heart.

The Passing Show

By J. S. COUPER

An esteemed lady correspondent bewid-ers me with her knowledge of Scripture and the metric knowledge she can glean from texts.
Not being a skilled or overburdened with creativity, I can only ponder in amazement. Yet it's surprising the uses to which Holy Writ can be put. I said you can find a quotation for any purpose, if you only seriously enough, in either the Bible or Shakespeare.

Mr. Tim Healy once brought down British House of Commons by applying to Joseph Chamberlain the magnificent verses from Job.

"He mocketh at fear, and is not affrighted; neither turneth he back from the sword."

"The quiver rattled against him, the glittering spear and the shield." He was the one to speak with fierce-ness and rage; neither believeth he that is the sound of the trumpet.

"He saith among the trumpets, Ha, ha; and he smelleth the battle afar off, the thunder of the captains and the shouting." It's about due time for someone to reassure it and apply the verses to Mr. Lloyd George.

Tuberculosis Requires Treatment

By DOCTOR FRANK MCCOY

Did you know that at some time in your life you have probably been infected with tuberculosis? Practically everyone becomes infected with the germs of this disease and some of them develop it, which the body is strong enough to cure by means of its own tissue, so that you may have a slight touch of tuberculosis, which gets well without your knowing it. Because the germ does not ordinarily produce a very serious disease, the disease may seem quite mild and usually the patient has it for some time before suspecting its presence and it will run its course in a sub-acute form, gradually getting worse, providing the right treatment is not used.

There is no disease where it is more unwise for the patient to make a mistake than in the case of tuberculosis. Especially if he strongly suspects he has tuberculosis of the lungs. Many laboratory tests and examinations may be necessary to accurately diagnose this trouble in its incipient stages. A skilled doctor can tell with a stethoscope and the x-ray whether or not the patient has tuberculosis of the lungs.

If you have gone to your doctor and he has told you this is your trouble then you should lose no time before beginning the best type of treatment. The longer you delay in getting time with treatment which does not do any good the harder the disease is to cure. One with this trouble should be very careful not to infect others, using every sanitary precaution.

The question of a tubercular patient marrying often comes up in the letters sent in. One with this trouble should be very careful not to infect others, using every sanitary precaution.

has been entirely cured. One who has tuberculosis can usually become perfectly well, and there is no reason why he should not marry when recovered.

The factor of climate is not as important as it was once thought to be. Mild cases of tuberculosis may be cured in any climate. In progressive cases, need expert care, no matter in what climate they may live. When a case has progressed too far for home care or where suitable climate cannot be obtained, it is better to course, advisable to send the patient to an institution, sanatorium, or doctor where he may receive the proper attention and care.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

QUESTION: B. M. V. asks: "What shape of belt is the best for one to wear with a floating kidney and should it be worn through the night as well as through the day?" Taking half a wine-glass of brandy a day any harm to one with a floating kidney?

ANSWER: I have attempted to raise floating kidneys through the pressure of belts but have never been able to do so with any success. Although sometimes the patient feels a great relief when the belt is worn. Most people do not have any symptoms from a floating kidney, and the majority of patients examined are found to have at least one kidney lower than what is considered normal. A floating kidney may not be harmful, but it is not any more than one in normal position. Whether or not the stimulation of brandy is good in your particular case depends upon many other things besides the position of the kidney.

QUESTION: P. inquires: "Is there any harm in taking the juices of a lemon in the morning for its refreshing effect, and then again before going to bed?"

ANSWER: There would not be any harm in taking the juice of a lemon in the morning or before going to bed, providing it is not too close to the stomach.

QUESTION: T. B. inquires: "Is it ever advisable to use any kind of breadstuff with a meal containing either potatoes or meat?"

ANSWER: Genuine wholemeal crackers, or muffins may be used in a limited quantity with either potato (meat) or starch food (potatoes) by those in good health. This is an exception to the general rule regulating the use of potatoes and starches.

WHEAT PRICES SCORE ADVANCE ON 'PEG' MARKET

WINNIPEG, Feb. 21.—Despite continued absence of a sustained foreign demand for Canadian wheat, prices advanced fractionally in today's session of the Winnipeg grain exchange, closing 1-1/2 cts. higher.

Imports of dual durum in the winter wheat area of the United States was a strengthening factor. May closed at 83 1/2 and July 82 1/2 cts.

Foreign sales were continued to a few scattered lots from western areas which was not reflected in pit operations. Greater shipping activity and enquiry for wheat was reported from Vancouver, however.

The steady flow of Australian wheat and flour to Japan, further sales were reported today, resulted in net 1-1/2 cts. gains at Liverpool, where prices reacted from earlier decline. Chicago held, small advances and Buenos Aires was unchanged to 1 cent higher. Cash export claims were quiet.
